COMMANDERS MEET

States

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The four Allied powers today declared their "supreme authority" over Germany, proclaimed the terms of unconditional surrender, and revealed the structure of the joint government which will control the conquered nation for an indefinite period.

The four governments—the United States, the United Kingdom, France and the Soviet Union—simultaneously proclaimed the terms of unconditional surrender, and revealed the structure of the joint government which will control the conquered nation for an indefinite period.

Since "there is no central government or authority in Germany," they declared the necessity of setting up an Inter-Allied Government, and admonished all Germany to accept the terms of surrender.

Issue Permits For Dumping of Rubbish

HULMEVILLE, June 5.—Hulmeville borough council decided at its meeting last evening that any local residents other than the authorized collector of rubbish be permitted to dump the rubbish at the borough dump provided they secure permits, each good for one day.

This action was taken in order to control the local dumping which the council is now using at the eastern section of Main street. Small containers of rubbish can now be placed at the curbs on regular collection days, and larger loads can be cared for if the residents desire to dispose of such at intervening periods, by securing a permit, good for the day on which it is dated. Such permit can be secured from the secretary of borough council, Frank R. Forker. Arrangements are to be made for collection of said permits at the time of dumping, and charge to be made will be 50 cents per permit. The gravel pit, which had been used for depositing trash, is closed for public purposes.

The presiding officer was Norman Davis, with councilmen Reginald Webb, Samuel J. Hlick, George Hlick, A. E. A. Bronson, Ned Meyer.

Reporting for the street committee, Councilman Bilger gave estimates received for repairs to Green, Weaver and Hulme streets and driveway avenue. The councilman also plans to secure additional bids on this work, and to endeavor to have some such repairs carried out as soon as possible. All street lights were reported burning.

The treasurer, Miss Grace H. Hlick, sent to the meeting a report that $493.03 is the treasury balance. Attention was called to the speeding of buses and private cars through the streets of the borough, also to children in some instances playing in the streets. Council decided to have the two borough constables make monthly reports to council.

Mr. Bilger reported attending a meeting at South Langhorne at which the subject of supervised recreation was mentioned as a possibility for this area.

Bills ordered paid include: George Dicken, postage and borough bond, $8; Ferd. Reetz, collection of rubbish, $12; Philadelphia Electric Co., current, $62.29; Pa. Board of Health, $5.49. Total $87.89.

MORE THAN KNOWLEDGE

That an educated crook is likely to do more harm to society than an uneducated one is a statement generally accepted. It is recognized that as far as individuals are concerned, mere knowledge is not enough. Nor is it enough for nations.

Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of Lafayette College, said recently that Germany and Japan led the world to the brink of destruction despite the fact that they have had less literacy than other nations. More than knowledge is needed if the world is to be spared the holocaust of future wars.

Dr. Lewis, who spoke to the National Institute of Social Sciences in New York City, said that education must be considered in broader terms than those of "formal schooling" if the "educational deficit" the nation will face after the war is to be eliminated during the next fifty years.

He sees the tremendous challenge facing education as not the acquisition of knowledge but the development in the individual and in the state of those ethical and spiritual standards which will make the proper choice automatic.

The Lafayette president predicted that fewer than 50 per cent of American boys who left school to go to war would return to finish their courses, and that the number of men who will avail themselves of educational offerings of the GI bill of rights is being overestimated. He is convinced that the greater part of the educational program for the millions now in service will be found in more informal educational enterprises, such as community forums, public libraries, museums of arts and sciences, musical organizations, churches and evening extension institutions.

The fewer the number attending college the more important it is that those who do so select courses which give them a sound background and promote qualities of leadership. It is here that the liberal arts are of particular value, inculcating a knowledge of the development of civilization and an appreciation of the world's culture. When these are coupled with ethical and spiritual standards, the student may be said to have the background required for leadership.

With men of this type in important places in industry, business and government, the nation should reflect not only the knowledge of men but also the highest qualities of heart and will.

FOOD IN LOCKERS

Kansas seems to be the guinea pig in a new experiment by the OPA, in which 8000 persons have been penalized for having meat for which they could not supply proof of having surrendered points in cold storage lockers. They have been compelled to surrender points from their ration books, in many instances points that are not yet valid.

If individually-held cold storage lockers are not immune to OPA search-and-seizure, what is sacrosanct about the kitchen and cellar?

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

such as the War Production Board, the War Labor Board, the Economic Stabilizer, the Food and Price Administrators, have become much more important. Complete co-ordination between these and the Cabinet members directly concerned with war problems is clearly essential. Unwilling to adopt the Wilson plan, Mr. Roosevelt finally tried to meet this need by creating the Office of War Mobilization. But that did not provide the two things that made the old War Council so successful: first, the face-to-face discussion; second, the personal presidential decisions from which there was no appeal.

WITH THE Japanese war stretching more or less indefinitely ahead and the tremendous postwar domestic problems looming large, it seems particularly sensible that something on the old War Council lines should appeal to Mr. Truman. It is pointed out that it is the one effective way in which the President can cut through the red tape in which all departments and agencies inevitably become entangled and give effective direction to governmental management. It is the one means by which he can bring about genuine co-ordination and co-operation. It is one way, without loading himself down with impossible burdens and personal interviews, in which he can keep on top of the whole situation. What is now urged is the creation by Mr. Truman of a council on which would sit the four or five Cabinet members who have dealings with war and economic problems, and also the three or four heads of the larger war and postwar agencies. In addition, it might be helpful to have two or three men, without portfolio, selected merely for their wisdom and experience.

SUCH a group would be of enormous value to Mr. Truman not only in concluding the Japanese war as speedily as possible but in restoring the economic stability of the nation and handling the serious domestic crises with which we are sure to be confronted. His regular Cabinet cannot provide the kind of advice and support the President needs. For example, no one will contend that the new Postmaster General, Mr. Hannegan, is equipped as a counselor in this period; nor the new Attorney General; nor the new

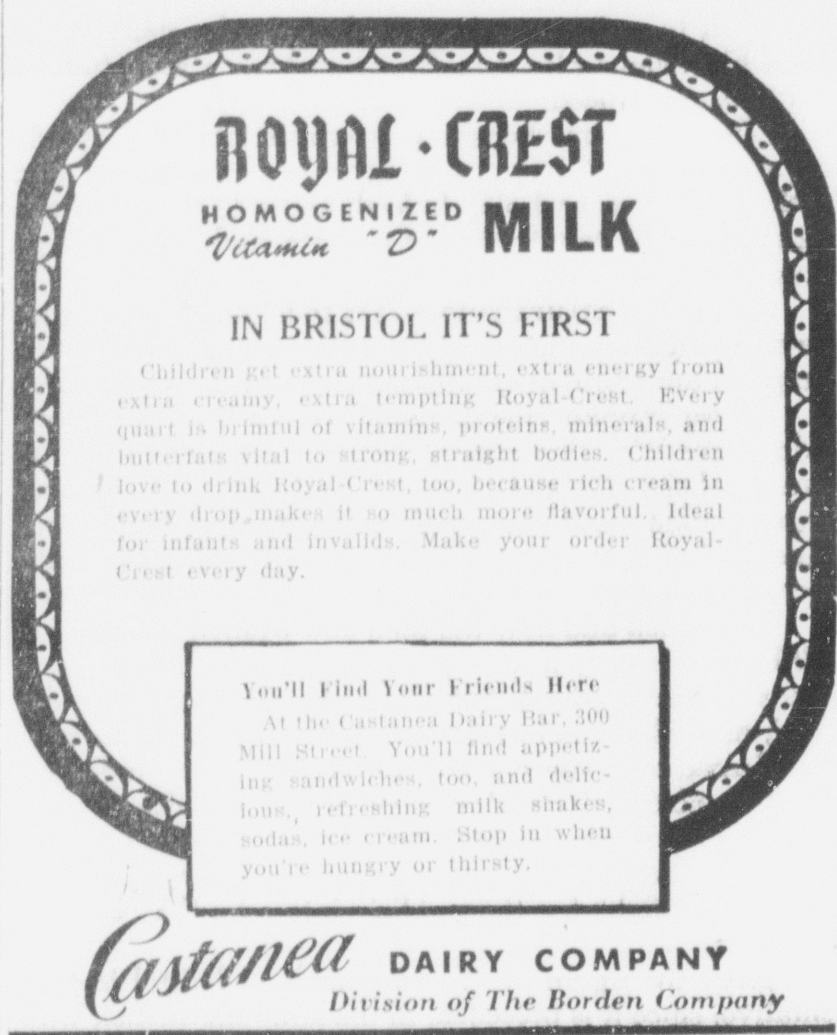

Secretary of Labor; nor several others whose names might be mentioned.

THESE MAY operate their respective departments with reasonable competency, but in the matter of handling or advising about war and postwar problems, few would consider them adequate. The President needs more than the regular Cabinet. He needs the best advice available. If there is any other way of getting it than the creation of a council such as has been outlined, no one has advanced it. It does seem that Mr. Truman could hardly serve the country—and himself—better than by giving this suggestion favorable consideration. Certainly, he has not inherited his predecessor's prejudice against it.

Arlene Spencer Graduates From St. Mary's Today

A young Bristol woman was among the 15 who were graduated this morning from St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, N. J. The localite is Miss Mary Arlene Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Wesley Spencer, West Circle.

The commencement exercises were held at 10:30 o'clock in Study Hall at the school, with Miss Newbold presenting the traditional address. The commencement address was by Lt. Rosa E. Cunningham, station commander, WAC Recruiting Unit, Trenton, N. J. There followed a short service in the chapel at which time Bishop Wallace J. Gardner presented members of the class with their diplomas. A buffet luncheon was participated in by parents of the graduates and their invited guests.

On Friday evening Miss Spencer, president, presided over the annual dinner of the athletic association. On Saturday, the junior class entertained in honor of the seniors at a picnic supper, with a dance following. Guests were from Bortown Military Institute, Peddie school, the Episcopal Academy and Princeton University.

On Sunday morning Miss Newbold entertained the senior class at breakfast at "Fairholm." The academic service was conducted at five o'clock on Sunday in the school chapel, with the Rt. Rev. Oliver J. Hart, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, delivering the sermon. Class day exercises yesterday included the traditional planting of the ivy; and in the evening piano and voice students gave a joint recital.

BRISTOL HIGH WINS THE LEAGUE CROWN FROM BUCKINGHAM

Oriola Again Proves His Mastery Over Rivals

FINAL SCORE IS 3 TO 2

Buckingham Wins Honors of Upper Section of Circuit

BUCKINGHAM, June 5—"Toby" Oriola again proved his mastery over the Buckingham high school team yesterday afternoon as the Bristol high team won the Lower Bucks County championship, defeating the Bucks, 3-2, in a hard-fought game.

Bristol had won the lower division championship while Buckingham won the upper section of the circuit. Yesterday's win was the second of the three-game series for Bristol and gave them the crown.

For five innings, Oriola pitched no-run, no-hit ball against the Buckingham batters but Yerkes opened the sixth with a single and before the inning was over Franklin had also singled to give the losers their pair of safe blows.

But Bristol also had difficulty in solving the slants of Carter who held them to five safe blows and it wasn't until the seventh that the Bunnies managed to push over the deciding run.

The Stackhouse boys had scored a pair of markers in the third on an error by Franklin, a hit by Oriola, a walk to O'Reilly and a single by Sperling. In the seventh, Centenze singled and stole second. He scored on an error of Fields' grounder. Fields stole second and third and was stranded when O'Reilly struck out.

Buckingham scored its first run in the sixth on hits by Yerkes and Franklin and rallied in the last inning to score a tally on a walk to Gana, stolen base, passed ball, and infield out.

cently that he has had more work than he can properly handle. Resignations as members of the teaching faculty, to become effective at the end of the present term, were received and accepted by the board from the following: M. Elaine Hockman, Margaret H. Smith, Grace I. Gerhart and Mrs. Jean R. Hetherington.

W. A. Brock, area co-ordinator of industrial education for the State Department of Education, addressed the board, and said that Bristol should have a vocational program, and that now is the time to consider it seriously. Carter Grant, of Fleetwings, Inc., requested the school board to establish courses for two nights per week to assist with the up-grading of employees of Fleetwings. He stated that Fleetwings is not training any new workers but that there is a need for the up-grading of those who are presently employed. Mr. Brock told the board that the school district would be reimbursed for instructional costs in such a course, but that the maintenance of the building and clerical hire would be at the expense of the board. After considering the request of Fleetwings the board voted against inaugurating these courses at the present time.

Charles Weik, of the property committee, reported that the special police have been giving very good protection at the high school grounds. It was called to the attention of the board that the trees on Wilson avenue need trimming, and a request was received from the teachers at the Jefferson avenue building for additional closet room.

Rally Misses Chance To Defeat Eastern Aircraft Aggregation

GAME ENDS AT 4 TO 2

Piuma Did the Hurling For The Fleetwings Boys

A Fleetwings rally fell short last evening on Leedom's field as the Arrows missed an opportunity to make a climb in the Trenton Industrial League. The Eastern Aircraft nine was victorious over the Bristol boys, 4-2.

Going into the last half of the eighth, the Wingers were trailing, 4-1. Lyzack was an easy out but Tosti singled to center and scored when "Bill" Fine ripped a two-bagger to right. Barbeta drew a pass. Aurigemma hit a grounder towards left which struck Fine and the latter was declared out. Lakens was given a pass and Walsh fled out to end the inning.

Hardy, Others Threatened With Shooting By Nazis

Swiss border nine days before the Free French liberated us."

During the 2½ months period that the Bristolian was in the German hospital at Baden-Baden, he and other patients were served black bread, potato soup, ersatz coffee, and occasionally Limberger cheese. On Sunday they each would sometimes receive a small piece of meat and a boiled potato. Pvt. Hardy lost between 20 and 25 pounds, but has regained most of it since being freed.

The infantryman states that the Germans used tissue paper to dress the wounds, with blisters consequently being caused. The wounds were dressed but once weekly.

American airmen in their frequent flights over the area bombed the section, and struck the Gestapo building adjoining the hospital, but luckily the hospital portion was not damaged. Artillery could be plainly heard striking at the next town, likewise the P-47's could be distinguished in their forays over the German artillery positions.

CUT-BACK

that "new contracts" might allow the rehiring of many of the dismissed employees.

It means a good deal to Bristol, of course, in business-turnover, real estate values and the like, whether the surplus war workers, both native and those brought here from other areas, are to have employment found for them in this locality or be transported to some other part of the nation.

The resettlement project has been one of the half-mysteries of the New Deal program.

For several years there have been strong indications that the "planners" proposed to make a bold raid on the wealth, population and factories of the industrial states between Maine and the Mississippi river, and offer the loot as political bait to the South and the Far West.

The recent change in rail freight differentials was interpreted as one step in this direction.

The start of the war-plant cut-backs has been awaited with both curiosity and anxiety to see whether the resettlement idea would be applied to it.

The temptation which the blue-print boys face, of shutting down war plants in such states as Pennsylvania, allowing no local expansion civilian production to absorb the idle workers, and thereby forcing a mass exodus of working people, is a major threat to the traditional American form of economy, as well as to the wealth and prosperity of a dozen or more industrial States.

That there has been no indication the Southern or the Western States wish thus to be placed in the position of receiving stolen goods, or that they would not rather build their own industries instead of robbing their sister states, are not enough in themselves to stop the Left Wingers from trying to carry out this New Deal version of the Communist Five-Year plan.

Both Congress and the American people have good reason to demand complete and candid information about how the cut-backs are being operated, and what is being offered those dismissed.

on the wall, the wounded were left in care of three German nursing sisters and were removed to a building nearby. When the Free French soldiers arrived their first question put to the wounded were: "Who didn't treat you right?" The liberators then advised the boys that what they found in the hospital was their's, and was told to help themselves. "It was then we found that the Germans had all kinds of good food—butter, eggs, meat and other things, stored in the hospital. Some of our men broke into a hotel nearby and found two rooms filled with Red Cross packages. Then our fellows commenced cooking in earnest. And we dressed each others' wounds." The men remained at the hospital for 13 days after being freed and were then evacuated. The French put at their disposal an automobile and a chauffeur.

Hardy holds in addition to the Purple Heart medal, the Good Conduct ribbon and Combat Infantryman's Badge. He has been in service since October, 1943, spending 13 months overseas.

enemy from July 17, 1944, to March 11, 1945, in France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Germany. Master Sergeant Klug has been of invaluable assistance in keeping all vehicles in the battalion in efficient operating condition. Not once during the time the battalion has been fighting has its motor transportation ever failed. The courage and devotion to duty displayed by Master Sergeant Klug reflect great credit upon himself and the armed forces of the United States."

Inducted January 15, 1942, M/Sgt. Klug has been overseas more than a year with the Fourth Armored Division. He participated in the crack tank division's race across France after the Normandy breakthrough, its relief of the besieged airborne troops at Bastogne, Belgium, and the Fourth Armored's spectacular drive through Germany into Czechoslovakia.

15TH AAF IN ITALY, June 5—An armorer with the veteran 455th Bombardment Group, Cpl. Joseph Y. MacAroy, Taylor and Brown avenues, Edgington, Pa., was recently authorized to wear the first Bronze Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Unit Badge when his group was cited "for outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict against the enemy."

Commanded by Col. William L. Snowden, the group officially received its second citation when Brig. Gen. William D. Hall, deputy commanding general of the 15th Air Force, pinned the blue battle streamer to its standard, in a recent ceremony.

Led by Lt. Col. David S. Thayer, Houston, Texas, and Lt. Col. Hugh R. Graff, Toledo, Ohio, 36 Liberator took off June 26, 1944, to lead their wing on a mission against the vital and heavily defended oil refinery at Mooschierbaum, Austria.

Enroute to the target, the group was intercepted by 20 twin-engine fighters, which were promptly engaged by the escort. Without fighter protection, the group was then subjected to suicidal head on attacks by a force of 60 twin-engine fighters and another force of 60 single-engine fighters, which raked the formation with machine gun, cannon and rocket fire.

Headless of the fierce opposition and its own rapidly dwindling numbers, the group held its formation while battling over the town to drop a devastating pattern on the vital installations below. During the unequal battle, the group's gunners definitely destroyed 34 of the attacking fighters, and held their own losses to 10 B-24s.

WITH THE AAF ENGINEER COMMAND IN ITALY, June 5—Cpl. Tech. George R. Wren, of Taft St., Bristol, Pa., overseas 13 months with the 2684th Engineer Aviation Utilities Detachment in Italy, has returned to the United States with his unit.

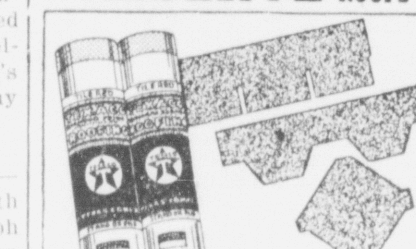

Assigned to maintain an important base of the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces when it arrived in Italy, the 2684th, a small unit of highly skilled technicians, kept the field operational at all times despite many difficulties. In the course of the year, they all but built an entirely new airfield on top of the original one, repatching the runway and taxiways from one end to another.

During the aerial softening up of the Southern France coast for that invasion, three bombers with full bomb loads exploded on the runway. The 2684th cleared the wreckage, policed up all the bits of metal and completely filled the huge craters, all within 24 hours and in time for the next scheduled mission.

authorities and the German people to "carry out unconditionally the requirements of the Allied representatives."

The four governments revealed officially for the first time the general location of the four Allied zones of Germany occupation and control. There was, however, no definite delineation of boundaries between these zones.

The general location of the four zones of Germany is as follows—

1. "An eastern zone to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."
2. "A northwestern zone to the United Kingdom."
3. "A southwestern zone to the United States of America."
4. "A western zone to France."

In each zone, the occupying forces will be under a commander-in-chief designated by the government responsible for that zone.
